SPEAKER PROFILE

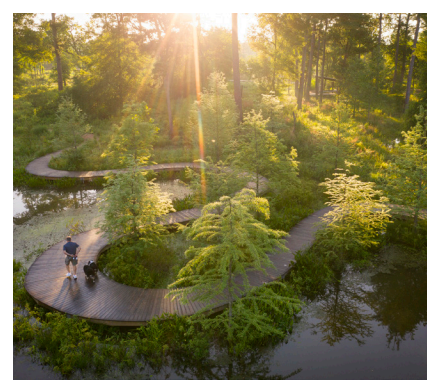

Emily McCoy, PLA, SITES AP, ASLA

PRINCIPAL
DESIGN WORKSHOP

Emily McCoy, is an Associate Professor of Practice at NC State University and Principal at Design Workshop, an internationally renowned design firm specializing in landscape architecture, urban planning and strategic services with eight studios in the U.S. and projects spanning the globe. Emily leads Design Workshop’s Raleigh Studio and serves on Design Workshop’s Board of Directors. Emily’s most notable projects include the Thaden School (Bentonville, AR), US Coast Guard Headquarters (Washington, DC), the Living Building at Georgia Tech (Atlanta, GA), Redesign of the Benjamin Franklin Parkway (Philadelphia, PA), Taza (Tsuut’ina Nation, Alberta) and Mary Branch Park (Austin, TX).

As a landscape architect, educator and ecologist, Emily approaches every project as an opportunity to celebrate the intersection of natural and cultural narratives of place through design and innovative technologies. Her professional practice and research spans internationally, leading conversations within the design and planning communities on maximizing landscape performance to perform social and environmental services for all people. Throughout her career, she has worked on a wide range of award-winning projects across the world that are models for integrating environmental, social and economic sustainability.

Outside of professional practice and teaching, Emily can be found exploring forests and streams in the Appalachian mountains with her husband, Ben, and dog, Juniper; or photographing nature on the ground or above with her beloved drone, Louise.
